

We're pleased to announce that the all-new Citizen Planner Online course is now available for enrollment.

To participate, you will need a broadband internet connection, and a laptop or desktop computer. Larger screens will provide a better experience for you. iPads and Android tablets do not work adequately with our system.

The program will be available for a limited-time price of $137.50 (one-half off the regular fee). We are offering this discount for a reason. Although the new course was extensively tested, you might encounter small technical glitches, and some of the activities may not work as expected. Also, the new Citizen Planner Online program is likely very different than other courses you may have participated in. Because of that, we're anxious to get feedback from our first enrollees.

As a condition of this introductory offer, we would like your commitment to let us know your honest thoughts about the program format and content, and information about technical issues you come across. With that in mind, there are short surveys for you to complete throughout the course, and a final evaluation form that is a bit longer than normal. We would also like the opportunity, with your permission, to visit with you on the phone after you complete the course to discuss your experiences and suggestions for improvement.

If this all sounds good to you, please enroll before May 12, 2017 to take advantage of special offer. To find out more, contact the Citizen Planner office or register for the Citizen Planner Online Program.

Thanks!
