Deployment involves moving an individual or military unit within the country or to another country. A mission or task might include training, supporting communities during times of disaster, helping foreign countries or fighting in a war. The many changes happening with each departure and return create difficulties for both service members and their families.

PRE-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES
- Trace each others hands and write a special message on each finger. Then laminate them with clear contact paper and cut the hands out. Keep them in a special place and use them when the service member leaves to remind them off all the special messages that were written to them.
- Use the map in the back of the book to mark where you live and where the service member will be. Fill out the roll call with names of people you can read the book with.

DURING-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES
- Draw pictures or write about why your service member is a hero. Think about what they do and how they make the world a safer place. Talk about words like honor, duty, freedom and pride and what they mean to your family.
- Pack a box full of your service members favorite items. Think about their favorite snacks, magazines or books. Include drawings, pictures or notes from you! Send the box to them!

POST-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES
- Have time set aside to do something special with your service member. This might include playing a game, playing outside, visiting a park or going for a special ice cream outing. Spend time laughing and having fun together.
- Trace your hands again. Compare how the hand prints have changed. Are they bigger? What is different? Talk about those changes and what you hope will stay the same.
