Deployment involves moving an individual or military unit within the country or to another country. A mission or task might include training, supporting communities during times of disaster, helping foreign countries or fighting in a war. The many changes happening with each departure and return create difficulties for both service members and their families.

Discuss the similarities and differences between the deployment location and home. Create a poster depicting similarities on one side and differences on the other.
- Use photos or drawings to decorate pillowcases for your child and your service member. Buy iron-on transfer paper and make a personalized pillowcase to keep your service member close to your child through the deployment.
- Place a picture of your service member in the front and back of the book.

DURING-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES
- Write letters and draw pictures for your service member during deployment. Send him or her a monthly update from your child with pictures and drawings.
- Send your service member a care package of his or her favorite candy, books or magazines. Find postal regulations at www.usps.com.
- Place two clocks in the house with one set at your time and one set at the time at your service member’s location. Talk about the time differences. Discuss what your service member might be doing differently from you at the same time.

POST-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES
- Make a sign to welcome home your service member. Include drawings and pictures from each member of the family on the poster.
- Have your service member share things he or she brought back from the deployment such as souvenirs, gifts or photos. Talk about the differences and similarities between the deployment location and home.
