An estimated 695,806 households heat with LP, Electricity, or oil, all of which are more expensive than pellets (depending on the price source). This represents the potential that could be converted to wood-based thermal systems.